CLASH OVER ERIN BORDER MAY RESULT IN ELECTION

Conservative Fight On Legislation Looms

NO DECISION YET

MacDonald Promises To State Views

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—In the House of Commons today, asked whether the Government had conferred this morning with the British signatories of the Irish Treaty on the subject of the boundary clause and whether a decision had been taken, the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, replied that difficulty having arisen in connection with the interpretation of Clause 12, he thought it advisable to seek the counsel of the leaders of the parties and the signatories of the Treaty. No decisions had been taken.

Asked whether the question would be adjourned till the autumn session and, if so, whether he was aware of the feeling throughout Ireland that the Government was not serious in pressing forward this case of the Irish Treaty, Mr. MacDonald replied that there was still a week before the House rose, and promised a statement tomorrow.

Reuter's Agency understands that the Government intends to adjourn next week-end until October and it is, therefore, impossible to pass a special Irish bill to meet the difficulty as suggested in some quarters.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—A grave view is taken in political circles of Mr. MacDonald's announcement that no decision had been reached at today's conference on the Irish boundary question.

There is talk of the possibility of a general election in the event of the Conservatives in the House of Commons opposing and the House of Lords rejecting the Government bill to implement the treaty, following the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council that fresh legislation would be necessary to constitute the Boundary Commission.

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 1.—Mr. J. H. Thomas announced in the House of Commons today that Mr. Cosgrave, President of the Dail Eireann, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, had been invited to London. If they failed to agree as regards the appointment of the Boundary Commission the Government would introduce legislation forthwith to give effect to the undoubted intention of the Irish treaty and press for its passage regardless of the consequences to the government.

LAST YEAR'S ADVISORY BOARD IS RE-ELECTED

Chinese Ratepayers Here In Favor Of Personnel Of Committee

Last year's Chinese Advisory Committee of the Shanghai Municipal Council were re-elected yesterday when the ballots were announced at a meeting of the board of directors of the Chinese Ratepayers Association. The members on the committee for 1924-5 will therefore continue to be Messrs. Jabin Hsu, Dr. P. H. Lo, Mr. C. C. Woo, Mr. Sung Han-chang and Mr. L. T. Yuan. Of the 18 votes cast, Mr. Hsu received 16, Dr. Lo, 14; Mr. Woo 12, Mr. Sung, 11; and Mr. Yuan 10.

Due to the lack of the required majority, the election of the chairman and the vice-chairman of the association yesterday was postponed.

The names of the advisors will now be submitted to the Consular Body for final approval.

URGE REVERSAL OF DECISION ON SINGAPORE BASE

Conservatives Make Fresh Attempt To Balk Government

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 30.—The Conservatives have made another attempt to reverse the Singapore decision. Mr. L. S. Amery (Conservative) in the House of Commons today, moving a reduction of the naval vote as a protest against the naval program of the Government, urged a comprehensive scheme of replacement and reversal of the decision as regards Singapore. He said that the importance of Singapore did not lie in the Pacific, but in the Indian Ocean, which it would effectually cover from outside invasion.

Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy (Liberal) thought that the Government was absolutely right. He believed that there was a liberal-democratic movement in Japan which would respond to an invitation to a disarmament conference.

Commander Bellairs (Conservative) said he was of the opinion that if we were to bear this burden of armaments, the Dominions ought to help us.

Mr. Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Admiralty, stated that the Premier was fully occupied with other matters, but as soon as possible every step would be taken to convene an international conference. Meanwhile the Government would maintain what it considered the right margin of safety, without doing anything which might be considered provocative.

Mr. Amery's motion was negatived by 226 votes to 182.

Mr. Ammon said that all the signatories to the Washington agreement had abided by it. Nobody had made a greater reduction than Britain. He saw no reason for revision of the Singapore decision. He denied that there was strong feeling in Australia, where he said, there was a division of opinion on the matter. Mr. Ammon pointed out that in view of the distance between Australia and Japan, it was not so easy for the latter to wreak her will on Australia as might be thought. He said that Singapore gave Mr. MacDonald something to bargain with and failing a satisfactory decision we should regretfully have to establish a base.

U. S. WILL SEEK SETTLEMENT OF ARMS DISPUTE

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, July 31.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, referring to the statement made yesterday in the House of Commons by Mr. Arthur Ponsonby, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign affairs, to the effect that the alteration in the elevation of guns on capital ships or an expenditure for the purpose of increasing the radius of action would, in the opinion of the British Government, be a breach of the Washington Convention, today said that: "It is a good idea to have the question raised in order that it may be settled."

As far as is known the Government has not taken steps to reply to the British representations on the subject of modernisation of old battleships, including the elevations of turret guns. In any case it is evident that no haste is necessary as the Navy at present lacks both authority and appropriations to increase the elevations, and the proposal, therefore, cannot be again submitted to Congress until its regular session in December.

Labor's Stand On India Is Explained

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—A clear statement of the Government's policy in India was made by Viscount Chelmsford, the First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Lords today. He read Mr. MacDonald's message to the "Hindu" in January last to the effect that no party in Great Britain will be cowed by threats or force or policies designed to bring the Government to a standstill, and if any Indian sections imagine otherwise, events will sadly disappoint them. Lord Chelmsford said this was an embodiment of the present policy, and declared that full discretion would be left to the Government of India to enforce law. The British Government would support the Government of India in any action they felt it necessary to take to quell revolutionary movement.

RUSSO-JAPAN SECRET PACT NOW NEAR, IS PARIS REPORT

Agreement Of Great Importance To Be Signed

WILL GIVE ARMS

Nippon To Exchange Munitions For Oil Fields

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—The Paris correspondent of the Morning Post says that well-informed circles believe that a secret Russo-Japanese treaty of the highest importance is on the point of signature, even if not already signed. It is asserted that Japan will furnish heavy artillery and hand over her surplus warships to Russia, while Russia will cede all oil rights in Northern Saghalien. It is further asserted that it was chiefly owing to Japanese influence that the Russo-Chinese agreements have recently been signed.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, August 1.—Commenting on the announcement by M. Karakhan, the "Asahi" today writes as follows:

"Despite the allegation by M. Karakhan that Japan and Soviet Russia differ in opinion as regards the time of evacuation of North Saghalien, we are of the opinion that the two countries would not find it very difficult to reach an agreement as to the question of the proposed withdrawal of Japanese troops from North Saghalien as well as to the formalities of apology by the Soviet Government over the Nikolaievsk affair.

"The Russo-Japanese negotiations will thus be focussed upon the question of rights and interests. M. Karakhan, in the course of his statement, manifests his refusal of Japan's exclusive rights and interests, but judging from the fact that the authorities concerned of the Soviet Government are alleged to have told a Japanese news agency in Moscow that Soviet Russia does not consider that the Russo-Japanese negotiations would be brought to a deadlock by the question of rights and interests in North Saghalien, the settlement of the above question may not be so difficult.

"It is to be emphasised that Japan will never claim to her rights and interests in North Saghalien in compensation for her recognition of Soviet Russia. We cannot agree with Mr. Karakhan when he alleges that Japan overestimates the value of her recognition of Soviet Russia, for the fact that the value of Japan's recognition of the Soviet Government has come down almost to the lowest point is also understood by the present Government of Japan.

"Moreover, the allegation that Japan is dealing with Soviet Russia with an attitude of a conqueror is what we cannot approve of, but we hope that the Japanese authorities concerned will further clarify their policy towards Soviet Russia and show that they are living up to the principle of reciprocity. Admitting that M. Karakhan's statement as to the question of rights and interests reveals tactics characteristic of him, the fact remains that such an attitude on the part of M. Karakhan must have thrown a bit of storm-cloud over the prospect of the Russo-Japanese negotiations. It is our earnest desire that M. Karakhan will not grudge his friendly and sincere co-operation towards the settlement of all problems pending between the two countries and at the same time we cannot help calling for his grave reflection."

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 1.—"Utterly false" is the official comment on the report of the Paris correspondent of the London Morning Post of a secret Russo-Japanese Treaty. Official circles express the opinion that such reports are being circulated systematically for ulterior reasons.

CAFE CLOSING LAW ENFORCED IN FRENCHTOWN

Proprietor Of Mumm's Fined For Keeping Open Till 3 a. m.

That the authorities of the French Concession intend to enforce to the letter the new cafe closing regulations adopted by both the International Settlement and the French Concession is evidenced in reports in the Chinese press that a conviction has already been entered in the French Mixed Court against Tsu Ving-ping, proprietor of Mumm's Cafe.

The cafe proprietor was arrested on complaint of a French police officer who stated in court that he had found the cafe open to the public at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, in violation of the regulations. When arraigned in the French Mixed Court the following day, he was found guilty of violating the regulations and fined Tls. 60.

The newly adopted regulations for cafes, which were agreed upon by the two councils, provide that places of public amusement may not remain open later than 2 a.m. on week-day nights, and, by special license, 3 a.m. on Saturday nights. At the time that arguments were made for the extension of the closing hour from 1 a.m. to 2 a.m., it was asserted that the French authorities were not enforcing the 1 o'clock closing law, thereby working an injustice on cafe proprietors in the Settlement. When the new regulations were drafted, the Shanghai Municipal Council expressed the hope that the French authorities would co-operate with them in seeing to it that the new regulations were rigidly enforced. This is apparently being done now.

FRENCH FORMULA FOR ARBITRATION ADOPTED; DIFFICULTIES SOLVED

Plan For Military Evacuation Of Ruhr When Germany Pays Her Debts Not Yet Considered; Reparations Commission Will Henceforth Sit In London

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—Reuter's Agency learns that the First Committee of the Inter-Allied Conference has unanimously adopted the first part of the French formula as regards arbitration. The second part dealing with the plan for the military evacuation of the Ruhr proportionately as Germany pays her debts has not yet been considered. The British amendment was withdrawn. The British and French delegates congratulated each other.

One delegate told Reuter's representative that "the great difficulty of the Conference is now over."

If the report of the Third Committee on deliveries in kind and cash transfers is favorable, the Conference may be regarded as finished so far as the Allies are concerned and the invitation of the Germans may be regarded as imminent.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 31.—An official communique states that the Reparations Commission will henceforth officially sit in London to deal with all questions arising from the Dawes Report.

Another official communique announcing the agreement of the first Committee declares that the effectiveness of the agreement will depend on the successful conclusion of the work of the third committee, which is considering other parts of the French proposal. The communique adds that the prospects of the third committee reaching an agreement appear to be hopeful.

It should be noted that the third committee is not dealing with the question of the evacuation of the Ruhr, as mentioned earlier, which matter is outside the scope of the present conference, and will be discussed jointly with the German representatives.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 31.—The Ruhr mineowners have renewed the agreements with the M. I. C. U. M. which expired on July 1.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 31.—The French arbitration proposal, which has been noted by the Allied leaders, has been referred by common agreement to the First and Third Committees for technical examination. This proposal applies not only to declaration of defaults, but also to difficulties which may arise regarding deliveries in kind and transfers.

The Reparations Commission has decided to sit officially in London on all occasions when it is necessary to deal with questions of its competence arising from the application of the exports' report.

GOMPERS ASKS LABOR TO TAKE NEUTRAL STAND

Endorsement Of La Follette Opposed By Head Of Federation

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—Samuel M. Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arose from his sick-bed and came here today to address the Council of the Labor Federation which is meeting to consider its plans and endorsement of candidates in the fall elections.

Mr. Gompers, suffering palpably from the effects of long-continued illness, declared that the Labor Federation should not support United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin in the presidential elections.

The Federation, Mr. Gompers said, should confine its activities in the election campaign to the support of such congressional candidates as favor labor. This has been the policy of the Federation in past campaigns, and Mr. Gompers saw no reason why that policy should be changed this year.

Since the meeting of the various nominating conventions, there has been a persistent movement in labor circles to throw the support of the federation to La Follette, those responsible for this movement taking the stand that neither President Coolidge nor John W. Davis, democratic Presidential candidate, were friendly to the interests of labor and that therefore the federation should come out openly in support of La Follette. It is believed, however, that the stand taken by President Gompers will effectually kill this movement.

Schemes To Check Crime Discussed By Street Unions

Agitation for measures to stem the tide of armed robberies in the Settlement is being continued by the various street unions. An appeal for harmony among the various unions and for the adoption of one general plan was voiced by Wang Chien-fang, who presided at a meeting of the Nanking Road Street Union Friday.

Reports of a meeting of the Chekiang Road Street Union Thursday night are carried in the Chinese press. At this meeting, which was well attended, resolutions were adopted which, among other things urged that landlords be requested to erect iron gates at the entrances to all alleyways off Chekiang Road; that shopkeepers be advised to instal iron grills over their counters; that residents of the district provide themselves and their employes with police whistles; and that a fund be raised by the union to compensate anyone who is wounded while attempting to arrest a robber.

The robbery prevention committee of the Amalgamated Association of Street Unions also met on Thursday night and voted to consider a proposal made by the Fokien Road Street Union to establish institutions to care for the unemployed as a means of checking crime. The meeting also voted to ask the Japanese authorities to give more drastic punishment than heretofore to persons found guilty of smuggling arms, and to investigate recent reports of robberies in the French Concession.

It has been suggested to Tsao Kun and the Cabinet to reorganise the territory of Sinkiang in order to include cities of Mongolia and increase the national revenue. For fear of offending certain authorities, Tsao has tabled the suggestion.

Soviet Legation Dispute Believed Near Settlement

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 1.—The difficulties facing M. Karakhan in the occupation of the old Russian Legation seem to be dissolving. Shortly after his interview with Dr. Schurman, M. Karakhan sent a note to the Protocol Ministers, stating that he desired to take over the Legation, while the Chinese Government and M. Karakhan notified the Diplomatic Body of the latter's assumption of the post of Ambassador. It is also understood that the Soviet Ambassador intimated to the Diplomatic Corps that the Soviet claims Protocol rights as the Soviet has not yet renounced the 1901 Protocol. This development is considered likely to facilitate the settlement of the question of M. Karakhan's entry into the Diplomatic Quarter. The matter is still being discussed, but the result is likely to be favorable to M. Karakhan and to be reached shortly.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 1.—The ministers for the Powers concerned this morning met at the American Legation and drew up a draft in reply to M. Karakhan's demand for the transfer of the former Russian Legation. They have decided to wire to their respective home governments, asking for instructions in this respect. Karakhan and the American Minister.

Women Companions See Two Kidnapers Pay Death Penalty

While their nine female companions looked on, two Chinese who had been found guilty of kidnaping, Yang Ming-fah and Keng Hua-tsung, were executed Thursday on the Chinese Bund outside the Big East Gate, the Chinese press reports.

The two men, in company with the nine women, were arrested recently at Amoy as they were about to land from a junk. Aboard the junk were twenty kidnaped children.

The execution yesterday, under direct orders from General Ho Feng-ling, defense commissioner for Shanghai and Sungkiang, was intended as a warning against the heinous practise of kidnaping. A special proclamation issued by the defense commissioner related in detail their crimes and spoke of their dastardly character.

Prior to the execution, the two accused, manacled and under a heavy police guard, were paraded about the streets of the Native City in rickshas. Then, with their women companions as witnesses, they were put to death. The women, following the execution, were taken to the District Court of Procuration, where their cases will be dealt with separately.

Editorials in the Chinese press warmly endorse the stand taken by General Ho Feng-lin and praise his prompt action in putting the offenders to death.

JAIL TERM FOR SUBSTITUTING UNSANITARY ICE

Boy And Iceman Given Two Months Each For Crime

The houseboy of Mr. Fisher, 108 Route Ferguson, as well as one Yang Chung-ling, his partner in crime, were sentenced to two months' imprisonment by Assessor Martin and Magistrate Zau in the Mixed Court yesterday morning. Miscalculations on their part having resulted in the discovery of a little scheme whereby Mr. Fisher was being supplied with native ice at $1.50 per 100 lbs. purported to be Foreign ice at $2 per 100 lbs.

Evidence showed that Yung, a former employee of Messrs. Dombey and Son, had made this arrangement with the houseboy, and had even stipulated that Dombey's own bill would be presented for payment to the Foreigner.

Although Mr. Fisher had telephoned them on June 3 cancelling further deliveries of ice, Messrs. Dombey and Son received a letter from their customer on July 24, enclosing bills for ice purchases throughout the month of June, together with a letter enquiring as to the reason why a separate receipt had not been given as usual.

The investigation that followed resulted in the appearance in Court this morning of the houseboy, his friend Yang and another coolie, at present employed by Messrs. Dombey and Son, who, it was disclosed, had obtained the printed bills of his firm for Yang. The coolie was fined $5.

The sudden storm which swept over Hankow about three o'clock yesterday afternoon, in conjunction with the present flooded state of the river, made a fearful mess in many parts of the concessions, says the Central China Post on July 28. The Japanese Concession and the S.A.D. were particularly affected and in the latter the water was knee-deep in many of the streets while quite big waves broke right across the Bund and roadway. There was also a rise of water in the back part of the French Concession, where many Chinese shops were quite inundated. The rise in the river that took place on Friday night and Saturday appears to have stopped again. It is said to have been due to another freshet in the Han.

Peking, August 1.—A party, including famine relief and Chihli River Commission officials, correspondents and a cinematographer, this morning flew over the flooded areas of Peking and Tientsin in an aeroplane placed at their disposal by the Director of Aviation. The party was piloted to the north ridge of the Hsi-ho which yesterday rose to the 1917 maximum. The river seemed perilously near the top of the dykes and the railways did not appear to be in immediate danger though the water was lying at the foot of the embankments on both sides for many miles. Most of the villages were high and dry but it was evident that the farmers will be hard hit.

They are stated to have been presented to the late Marquis Tseng Kuo-fan for meritorious services rendered during the Taiping Rebellion in 1851-1856. They were purchased by the present owner at Changsha in 1918 from a member of the late Marquis Tseng's family, where they had been kept as an heirloom for over sixty (60) years. The reason for their sale was due to the critical situation prevailing throughout the province of Hunan owing to repeated charge of Government since the advent of the Republic, the owners being afraid to retain them any longer for fear of losing them on the entry of the Northern Government troops under General Chang Ching Yao in 1918.

New Baseball Diamond In Frenchtown Will Be Completed In A Month

Chinese Will Have Opportunity To Learn America's National Pastime As Result Of Activities Of Local Commission

By Lowell Upson

A new project which has just sprung up in the local world of sport is the new baseball diamond in Frenchtown for the introduction of the American National game to the Chinese. This idea which was originated by Mr. Herbert B. Gallop and Mr. Freddie P. Bills, two prominent members of the Shanghai Baseball team, was started last year, and now the field is nearing completion and is reputed to be as good as any baseball ground in the major league in America.

Up to the present time in Shanghai, the Chinese have had no real opportunity to familiarize themselves with baseball, as played by their American friends, as the game has been confined solely to the Race Course.

Messrs. Gallop and Bills, have had the opportunity to observe that the Chinese may possibly take up the game with enthusiasm if they are given proper facilities and opportunities to become acquainted with the game. Baseball is prevalent to some extent in local Chinese schools and colleges but not carried on too enthusiastically. By an organised effort to stir up keen interest it is believed the Chinese may eventually take up the game with the same spirit and enthusiasm that prevails in America and Japan.

OBTAIN GOOD SITE

With this in view the first real step taken by the commission was the creation of the Pioneer Baseball Field, situated in the French Settlement at the corner of the Rue De "Observatoire and Rue Amiral Payle. The matter of securing land large enough for a baseball field conveniently located proves to be no easy accomplishment in Shanghai. The Commission however, were most fortunate in securing the present site for this new field, which is conveniently located, and easily accessible. Amiral Bayle, being a continuation of Mohawk Road, permits one to start at the Race Club at the corner of Mohawk and Nanking Roads, and proceed down Mohawk Road into Amiral Bayle direct to the field. It is about a ten-minute ricksha ride by this way to the grounds. The field is easily reached by street car.

The park will be fed by a Bus service on game days, one line running from the Bund and Edward VII up Edward VII to Amiral Bayle and down Amiral Bayle to the field. Another line will probably run from the corner of either Mohawk Road and Nanking Road or Mohawk Road and Avenue Edward VII down Amiral Bayle to the field.

READY IN A MONTH

The athletic grounds themselves are about the neatest that can be found in any part of the world while the grandstands circle the whole park which is another facility that the Big League parks have.

The shortest point to the foul lines is three hundred feet from home plate, making the actual playing area of the field larger than the Polo Grounds in New York. About 5,000 persons can be comfortably seated in the stands and the field will be ready about the end of August or early September.

In addition to the Pioneer Baseball Field, the Committee plans to locate four more fields in Shanghai, one in Jessfield, Kiangwan, Hongkew and Yangtszepoo. These latter fields will be more in the nature of playgrounds, where equipment for playing baseball will be supplied those who care to make use of same. They will not be built on the elaborate scale of the Pioneer Baseball Field. To encourage the Chinese to play, without causing them any great expense, equipment of all kinds, excepting suits and shoes, will be at their disposal on the Pioneer Field, as well as on the other four contemplated. Arrangments for coaching and providing instructors will be made, and this department will probably be headed by Mr. Harry Kingman and the game will be developed on an amateur basis.

Mr. Bills is now in the States endeavoring to obtain recognition and support for the project from the American Baseball Commission. The personal of the Commission will be enlarged after Mr. Bills, returns from America in September. Two well known local Chinese newspapers have agreed to join the Commission, and probably, as the activities of the Commission are enlarged, the personnel will be increased.

Manila To Seek G. $500,000 For Memorial Stadium

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, July 23.—A drive to raise $500,000 (U. S. Currency) for the construction of a stadium in the City of Manila to be known as the "Jose Rizal Memorial Stadium" was given official sanction today when Governor General Wood issued a proclamation setting the period from August 10 to September 30 within which a campaign for the raising of the sum of $25,000, needed for the beginning of the projected structure may be conducted.

It is planned to complete a portion of the stadium in time for the Far Eastern Championship games which take place in Manila in May 1925. The completed structure is to be a permanent home for athletic contests and all other forms of public outdoor meetings.

The Governor General urges all the people throughout the Philippines to assist in this "most worthy undertaking."

The stadium is to be a memorial to Jose Rizal, the national hero, who was executed in 1896 by the Spaniards.

Baseball Today And Tomorrow 4 p.m.

The baseball fixtures for the weekend will be between the Shanghai team and two Japanese aggregations, both local. This afternoon the Gallopers will meet a Japanese school team which is said to be of very good repute, while tomorrow afternoon the Shanghai Japanese All-Stars will take the Gallopers on.

The Japanese schoolboys were practicing yesterday afternoon and showed up very good and will probably give the local team a good practice game for the coming big series with the Keio nine which is expected to arrive in Shanghai next week. The opening game with the Keio aggregation is set for next Saturday, while another combat will be played on Sunday, and, with two games during the week, the series will probably finish the following week-end.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Pirates Raid Junk Off Shantung Coast; Had $70,000 Cargo

Piracy of a junk with a cargo valued at between $70,000 and $80,000 off the Shantung coast is reported in special dispatches to the local Chinese press. The junk, which was en route from Shanghai to Dalny, has been badly damaged and is unable to proceed, and several members of the crew were wounded in the engagement with the pirates, the reports say.

The junk, the Kung Dah Zung, is the property of the Sin Zung Hong, and sailed from Shanghai on July 9 en route to Dalny.

Another junk belonging to the same firm was pirated off the Shantung Coast last Spring and a cargo value at $100,000 was stolen. No arrests were ever made in connection with the previous case.

The story familiar to readers of literature is artistically told and set in surroundings more than of ordinary attractiveness.

Rich above all in human interest: delving into the depths of life and revealing profound truths about human nature. IT IS a great unforgettable picture depicting the life of a Parisian Ragpicker and his adopted daughter, THEIR struggling, living, loving and finding in the end, that they have won more than they have lost.

Nicolai KOLINE as the Parisian Ragpicker takes the histrionic honors of the film and by SUPERB ACTING he makes of the assigned role a deeply human character.

INTERNATIONAL BANK SUED BY GROMOV HEIRS

Claim For G.$360,450 Is Being Heard Before Judge Purdy

The Gromov Heirs represented by Mr. H. D. Rodger, of Messrs. Rodger and Husar, Shanghai, filed a suit for Gold $360,450 against the International Banking Corporation in the United States Court for China, now in session at Harbin.

The International Bank is represented by Mr. Walter Chalaire of Messrs. Chalaire and Franklin, Shanghai.

The plaintiffs allege that they had entered into a contract for the sale of furs, stipulating that the purchase money be deposited with the International Bank by their client.

Claimants were notified by the bank that the money had been deposited, the goods were delivered, and the International Bank requested that the documents be forwarded to their Harbin branch Plaintiffs claim that the documents were duly forwarded and now press for the handing over of the money.

JURISDICTION IS QUESTIONED IN STORAGE CASE

Judge Skinner Turner Takes The Point Under Advisement

The hearing was resumed yesterday in the British Supreme Court before Judge Sir Skinner Turner, of the suit brought against the Union Cold Storage Company, Limited, by Messrs. Moorhead and Halse. Mr. M. Reader Harris represented the plaintiffs, and, Messrs. G. H. Wright and J. E. Badeley appeared for the defendants.

Mr. M. Reader Harris answered the defense, who had pleaded yesterday that the Court has no jurisdiction over a Company incorporated in England who has never operated in China, and has never had any agents in China. Mr. Harris submitted that the Court must have jurisdiction over the defendant Company, having jurisdiction over all the land in China which is the property of British Subjects. Also, that the defendants are undoubtedly under the jurisdiction of English Courts, but the Home Courts would have no power to enforce their decision in China.

Through Chinese Eyes

RECRUITING BY KIANGSU

More than once the press has reported on Kiangsu's recruiting of 10,000 fresh troops. Up to the present, we have received no denial from the Nanking authorities, so the reports must have some foundation.

"Kiangsu today has no necessity for warlike preparations. There is no brigandage. The original horde of soldiery is superfluous. Why should this large number of troops be recruited. Moreover, Kiangsu's financial situation is most stringent. The total amount of provincial debts is over $20,000,000. The people can no longer bear the burden of military expenses. The move of the Kiangsu authorities is really a great surprise to the Kiangsu people.

"Since the circulation of the reports of recruiting, rumors are again rife that Kiangsu is going to cross swords with Chekiang. This is the natural consequence. Directly, this move increases the financial burden of the Kiangsu people while indirectly it disturbs the peace and order of the nation. Strict attention should be paid by the Kiangsu people on this measure. The gentry and the Parliamentarians should at once inquire into the cause of this act and the source of money to finance the soldiery. If the Kiangsu authorities had not done any recruiting, they should officially deny the reports in order to dispel the suspicion of the people."
—Sin Wan Pao.

SHAMEEN STRIKE

"The Shameen strike has been on for some considerable time. No settlement is in sight. The recent negotiations show that both sides are clinging to their original terms and a general strike is threatened. Hongkong telegrams states that the British and French Consul-Generals have actually forbade Chinese depositors to draw their money out of Shameen banks, and proclaimed martial law by informing the firms and residents to take out special permits without which traffic to and from Canton will not be permitted. The situation is grave since the prolongation of the negotiations will mean the extension of the strike.

"Oppression is generally followed by reaction. The higher the pressure, the bigger the reaction. The new restrictions concerning Chinese in Shameen had their cause in the bomb outrage during the visit of the Governor of Indo-China, which had nothing to do with Chinese. Their repudiation is natural. Such discrimination is intolerable especially in the case of Chinese laborers. Now the Consul-Generals from Great Britain and France have failed to look into the cause of the whole trouble, but are assuming an autocratic attitude with the hope that the Chinese laborer will yield. This is impossible. Present day diplomacy should be based on the will of the people. The policy of oppression of the weak was in vogue 30 years ago, but has no place in international intercourse of today. The Shameen authorities should be aware of this fact."—Shanghai Tribune.

FLOOD SURTAXES

"The Cabinet has decided to enforce surtaxes on all means of communications within this month. We have already opposed this measure once, but our opposition seems to have little or no endorsement. The feeble protests that have been filed with Peking are unable to cope with the force and power of the militarists, so that enforcement is almost certain.

"But are the proceeds of the levy going entirely to the flood sufferers? We are sure no one can answer this in the affirmative no matter how much confidence he has in the present government. What is our relief then?

"1.—These income should not be handled by militarists.

"2.—The distribution of the funds should not be entrusted to the militarists.

"Then and only then may the sufferers be actually benefitted. Otherwise the distressed will hardly receive half of what we give while the remaining half will go to swell the war chests of the worthless to retain the services of intriguing politicians and to buy votes from the Parliamentarians. No matter how generous we are, we can't tolerate the sight of the militarists to use the money that we have earned with blood and sweat to cut our own throats. Therefore under the circumstance, we should rise to the call and supervise the use of all the funds.

"In cooperation with such institutions as the International Famine Relief Committee and the gentry, a unified organisation might be formed in every city to act as a board of trustees and to distribute the money justly and honestly. Monthly reports might be made to show how the money is distributed. Otherwise, this will simply give the authorities one more chance to sell the body and soul of the sufferer."
—National Herald.

Why Bonds Are Appreciating In Value

Ever since the Spring of this year, market quotations of consolidated Government bonds have been steadily appreciating, especially in the case of Currency Re-organisation and 6 percent consolidated loans, says the Chinese Economic Bulletin. At the present writing, the former is quoted at 91 for spot delivery and the latter at 88. It is only four months ago that both of these issues were bought and sold at considerably below 50 per 100 dollars face value. Although the increased customs receipts, which give additional assurance of the payment of interest and capital of these loans, is to a large extent responsible for the rapid rise in the market quotations, there are a number of other reasons contributing to this phenomenal appreciation, which may be briefly discussed as follows:

(1) The life insurance business has been making rapid strides in China during recent years. As a result of general depression along industrial lines, the insurance companies look more and more to Government bonds as a reasonably safe investment yielding higher interest than the banking rates. The amount from this source put into the bond market must be very considerable, although no exact data can be obtained.

(2) Many new banks are starting to issue notes and old banks (the Bank of China, for instance) are increasing their issue. Aside from the cash reserve, a certain percentage of the required reserve is allowed by law to be in Government bonds. The consolidated loan bonds are the only ones that the banks would deposit against their notes. Calculating on the basis of 30 percent on the total of new and increased issues during the year, the amount reaches several tens of millions dollars.

(3) The Postal Savings system has been steadily growing in popularity during the past year. It is known that a large portion of the deposits received have been invested in Government bonds. Similarly, the pension funds of the Customs service have largely been invested in bonds.

(4) Lured by the high rate of interest, many educational institutions have been induced to put their foundation funds in Government bonds. The half-million in 6 percent Consolidated acquired by the Nankai University is a typical instance.

(5) The abnormal growth of speculative tendencies on the part of the public is another important reason for increased activity on the bond market. Marginal transactions in China are of recent origin, but the desire for speculation has now caught the people like a contagious disease. The recently established exchanges afford the speculators facilities which they never dreamed of before. Numerous money shops, acting as agents for these exchanges, offer further inducements and accommodation to their clients. It is common experience that transactions involving hundreds of millions may be done on the strength of a total issue of ten or twenty million dollars, worth of bonds.

(6) The unsettled conditions prevailing in the country, giving rise to an undue amount of risk for property owners in the interior, has induced a large number of people to liquidate their possessions and transfer their money to the treaty ports and large cities. These people are not inclined to undertake industrial enterprises, and the only use they can make of their floating capital is in the buying and selling of bonds.

(7) Aside from these factors, the stock and bond exchanges themselves require a certain amount in deposits from their customers for each transaction recorded. These deposits are usually made in bonds. The contracts of the various Government railways and the express companies also specify certain guarantee funds which the express companies are required to deposit with the railway offices. These deposits are also, as a rule, made in consolidated bonds.

The causes enumerated above all contribute to the abnormally increased demand for bonds of the consolidated class, resulting in a steady rise in their market value. But it remains to be seen whether the high quotations can be maintained. With quotations at their present level, 6 percent interest on present valuation falls considerably short of the ordinary banking rate and banks in consequence have long stopped buying.

GERMANY HOLDING WORLD'S INTEREST AS TRADE RIVAL

Commercial Effects Of Rehabilitation Of International Import

Foreign trade interest throughout the world now centers upon Europe, both as a competitor and as a consumer, according to Mr. Julius Klein, director, U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, writing in the June 21 number of Forbes magazine.

Particular interest, he says, is in Germany where the commercial effects of the rehabilitation of international affairs is in progress.

"There are already perceptible a number of encouraging indications of what may be anticipated should the pending reorganisation efforts,—both economic and political,—crystallise into a definite reconstruction program," he writes.

"The striking feature of the continental situation is the continued industrial boom in Germany due to the stabilization of currency. This has naturally affected the currents of the foreign trade of that country in both directions. In the first place, her exports have been falling off rapidly, her sales to the United States in April standing at about $9,500,000 as against $13,600,000 in April, 1923.

"German industrial leaders are not as yet seriously disturbed over this curtailment of foreign markets being absorbed, no doubt, in the considerable stimulus to domestic demand. The improved purchasing power of the mark is reflected in our exports to that country, which stood at nearly $32,000,000 in April, 1924, as against scarcely $26,000,000 a year ago.

"The outstanding problem seems to be the acute shortage of credits which, unless remedied, will be bound to slow down industry throughout the country, as is the case in Poland where the leading industries are now operating on a scale of 40 percent of normal because of the credit shortage.

TRADE WITH GREAT BRITAIN

"As conditions improve throughout Europe, we may expect similar declines in our imports and a pick-up in sales to those countries. Our trade exchanges with our leading customer, the United Kingdom, illustrate this point with considerable emphasis. The April figures, which have just been compiled, show imports of approximately $29,000,000, as against more than $41,000,000 a year ago; whereas our exports to that country rose from about 58,000,000 to nearly $66,000,000. Further improvement in the labor situation throughout the basic industries in England is pointing toward a continued recovery. Our shipments of automobiles and parts have been considerably stimulated by the prospective repeal of the McKenna duties. The present depression in coal trade is, of course, largely seasonal. An outstanding feature of the textile industry is the steady shift of the raw cotton imports from American sources to Indian and other producing areas in the Empire. Further evidence of this determination on the part of the British textile industry to relieve itself of too great dependence upon the uncertain American supply is shown in the program of the recent British Mission to Brazil, which had as one of its chief purposes the improvement of the cotton supply in that country for British uses.

"Italian conditions continue to improve. National finances have evidenced material strength, as shown in the advance of prices of recent bond issues well above par. Exports continue to be quite active, in fact Italy is the only one of the more important commercial nations of Europe whose shipments to the United States are maintaining the levels of the corresponding period of 1923.

"Improved exchange is also showing its helpful effects in Spain, where stability of the peseta has encouraged importations from the United States and elsewhere and is contributing materially toward the stimulation of railroad construction, building trade, and other salutary improvements.

"French exchange uncertainties have apparently been partly responsible for the steady increase of exports and curtailments of imports, a situation which resulted in a moderate favorable trade balance for the first quarter of 1924.

China Cotton

Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son, Inc., state in their current report:

Fluctuations during the past week have again been nervous and erratic, but the tendency on the whole has been upward, and the net result of the week has been a moderate advance.

As to the future outlook, the course of the market will be dependent on weather conditions, especially during the critical months of August and September, that it would be useless to express any decided opinion. The trade's attention from now on to picking time will be centred not only on weather conditions but also on possible damage from insects, boll weevil, etc. While the technical position of the market may offer opportunities for occasional scalping operations, the progress of the crops in American, Indian and the China cotton belts will continue to be the chief basis for important prices.

SPUNT & CO.'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co.'s report states:

While the quantities of spot cotton absorbed by spinners during the past week may be considered negligible, prices, however, ruled higher and continue to be firm at the close, being buoyed up in its trend by the advancing tendency in the values of the local staple for distant deliveries and the absence for the time being of any opportunity to draw on foreign supplies at more reasonable or even at the same rates as those ruling on the domestic growth.

Weather conditions from later reports to hand, while not altogether as would be desired, may, on the whole, be considered as having been so far favorable and if similar conditions were to prevail, without any untoward circumstances intervening, a fair average yield of good quality cotton may be expected during the coming season.

As to the future trend of prices, which is at all times dependent on many factors, it would be ridiculous to attempt any prognostication at this time having regard to the hazards and vicissitudes the plant is exposed to during the month of August, which is its most critical period of existence and would, therefore, advise greater vigilance from day to day in deciding for supplies for future deliveries.

Tone of the market: Firm.

More Backstairs Diplomacy?

SOMEONE once defined a diplomat as a man sent abroad to lie for the good of his country. Be that as it may, it is futile to shut our eyes to the fact that diplomacy of a certain order and espoused by certain countries, especially during the period immediately preceding the War, has been responsible for not a little mischief and much misery, as witness the machinations of Balkan princelings, who, utilized by the Russian Tsarist regime as mere pawns in their grand political game, embroiled the whole world in a cosmic upheaval from the effects of which humanity has not yet recovered. It is doubtful whether the Balkans will ever again have a chance of setting Europe by the ears in view of the vigilance maintained over that region of the Continent by the Powers, but so far as the Far East is concerned, it is not easy to say whether or not, in the near or distant future, this part of the world will be converted into a theater where an international drama, perhaps greater than the 1914 episode and its aftermath, may be enacted.

In our editorial columns last Sunday, we had occasion to make reference to the sensational cable which the staff correspondent in Paris of the New York World dispatched to that journal under date June 17. The correspondent in question then made the statement that a secret treaty of far-reaching character had been, or was about to be, signed by Russia and Japan. The World correspondent claimed to have derived his information from a diplomatic source. According to him, MM. Karakhan and Joffe, of the Russian Foreign Office, negotiated this treaty as they did the one recently made with China. At the time, we were not inclined to give serious consideration to the report in view of the facile manner in which sensational rumors are apt to gather strength, especially in the realm of international affairs. Now, however, the Paris correspondent of the London Morning Post comes forward with the statement that well-informed circles believe that a secret Russo-Japanese treaty of the highest importance is on the point of signature, even if not already signed. It is asserted that Japan will furnish heavy artillery and hand over her surplus warships to Russia, while Russia will cede all oil rights in Northern Saghalien. It is further asserted that it was chiefly owing to Japanese influence that the Russo-Chinese Agreements have recently been signed—a statement that exactly corresponds with the suggestion of the Paris correspondent of the New York World when he transmitted his significant message of June 17.

Now what does it all mean? For what purpose does Soviet Russia want Japan's heavy artillery and her surplus warships? The Soviet Government does not appear to be in imminent danger of attack by any foe, and it is not easy to understand, assuming that the report is grounded in fact, why Russia should be thinking of arming herself at the very moment when talk of disarmament is general in Europe and the United States. And what of Japan? It is scarcely likely that the Tokio Government, always endowed with a degree of political perspicuity not possessed by the diplomats of other countries, would suffer itself to be caught napping by the Peking Government in the sense of the latter forestalling Tokio by the conclusion of an agreement with Soviet Russia. There is, therefore, nothing inherently improbable in the suggestion that the Japanese Government was cognizant all along of what was going on between China and Soviet Russia and perhaps was even instrumental in hastening the completion of the Russo-Chinese negotiations. Information reaching Paris circles in the latter part of June indicated that in the negotiations between Moscow and Tokio, Japan was playing to obtain control of oil and coal in Asiatic Russia against cancellation of Russia's debt to her and de jure recognition. No military agreement was then being discussed, it was said, but according to Russian sources, Japan wished to commit the Soviets to a fixed policy in case Japan got into a war. The Japanese Foreign Office and M. Karakhan, chief Soviet negotiator, had exchanged Notes, which give some conception of the scope of the negotiations. Tokio's demands were said to be contained in six paragraphs, which the Russians were reported to have answered in turn:

Demand No. 1—In case the northern part of the island Sakhalin cannot be sold to Japan, Russia should give the Japanese Government or a Japanese enterprise a long-term right of exploitation of coal mines, oil fields and forests in this region.

Answer—Russia cannot sell the northern part of the island of Sakhalin to Japan, but can give concessions for coal oil and forests in this zone.

Demand No. 2—Japan should receive long-term concessions for the exploitation of mineral and forest riches at eight different points exclusive of Sakhalin and the Gulf Decastre. These concessions should be accorded to the Japanese Government or to a Japanese enterprise.

Answer—Russia has no objection to according concessions for minerals and forest outside Sakhalin. However, Russia reserves the right to indicate these regions.

Demand No. 3—Russia should recognize responsibility for the incident of Nikolaiovsk, and she should undertake to express her regret in concrete form.

Answer—Since the incident of Nikolaievsk occurred on Russian territory, Russia expresses her regrets, but reserves the right to decide herself on the form in which she shall give satisfaction to Japan.

Demands Nos. 4 and 5—Russia should give Japan the rights and privileges heretofore asked on condition that Japan does not demand a money indemnity for the Nikolaievsk incident.

Answer—Russia is satisfied with the magnanimity of Japan in not asking compensation for the Nikolaievsk incident, nor for the former Russian debts of 200,000,000 yen. Russia may give Japan special privileges, but in general she maintains her rights of equality treatment.

Demand No. 6—Japan should receive most-favored-nation rights if she does not ask payment of the former Russian debts. But if Russia agrees to pay her former debts to other Governments, Japan reserves the right to demand similar treatment.

Answer—Russia would agree to accord to Japan most-favored-nation rights.

The relations between America and Japan were treated in the recent fifth congress of the Third International when one of the political reports made to the congress said:

After the great earthquake Japan was weakened. America takes advantage of this weakness to pass the new immigration law. On the other hand, the revolutionary element in Japan is gaining ground. We have excellent reports from Korea, where the revolutionary elements are preparing for an explosion against Japanese imperialism. In China the weakness of Japan has brought a movement to rid China of Japanese domination. The Japanese Government has need of the aid of the Soviets in view of her strained relations with America, and she has begun conversations with us.

We should use the occasion to lay down all our conditions. We are willing to help Japan fight American imperialism, but only if we are thereby enabled to make great steps in Japan for communism. It is difficult for us to sign an agreement with Japanese imperialism unless by that means we can crush American imperialism. Japan's relations with the Soviets and China will determine her ability to fight America, for Japan could not fight both sides at the same time.

We cannot, of course, vouch for the accuracy of the foregoing statements, but the persistent reports of the conclusion of a secret treaty between Soviet Russia and Japan would seem to call for an official pronouncement from Tokio. The signature of an Agreement by the Soviet with a puppet Government in Peking has its dangers, in all conscience, but if to this menace is added the peril of a secret treaty between the Soviet and Tokio, we dread to contemplate the sinister possibilities of such a situation.

The Naval Limitation Treaty And The Gun Controversy

IN yesterday's newspapers there were two dispatches, one from Washington and the other from London, giving exactly opposite views on the controversy between America and Britain on the question of gun elevation. It seems that the United States is now engaged in remodeling and modernising some of its capital ships, and, in this connection, proposes to make alterations whereby it may be possible to raise the elevation of the guns. American naval officers insist, according to the news reports, that the Naval Limitation Treaty signed at the Washington Conference has no concern whatever with this subject, while the British Government insists just as emphatically that the Treaty has everything in the world to do with it. Briefly, the American naval experts propose to alter the gun carriages in the ships to permit raising the elevation of the muzzles of the guns which would give them a greater firing radius. The British oppose this view and say it is prohibited in the Treaty. The Americans come back and say that the newer British battleships already have these improvements and hence the Americans should be permitted to meet the competition. The dispatch from Washington indicated that the controversy on this point had been in progress ever since the close of the Conference and recent British representations are likely to bring the discussion to a head.

In view of the great amount of attention which is being given to this question in Parliament and in the press, it is of interest to review the Treaty on this highly technical point. The first mention of guns on capital ships in the Treaty is in Article VI, which reads as follows:

"No capital ship of any of the Contracting Powers shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 16 inches (406 millimeters)."

The next reference to the subject of guns is in connection with the limitation of size and number of Aircraft Carriers. This is in Article IX and is:

"The armament of any aircraft carriers exceeding 27,000 tons (27,000 metric tons) standard displacement shall be in accordance with the requirements of Article X except that the total number of guns to be carried in case any of such guns be of a calibre exceeding 6 inches (152 millimetres), except anti-aircraft guns and guns not exceeding 5 inches (127 millimetres), shall not exceed eight."

Then further in connection with the subject of armament for aircraft carriers, Article X of the Treaty states;

"No aircraft carrier of any of the Contracting Powers shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 8 inches (203 millimetres). Without prejudice to the provisions of Article IX (quoted above) if the armament carried includes guns exceeding 6 inches (152 millimetres) in calibre the total number of guns carried, except anti aircraft guns and guns not exceeding 5 inches (127 millimetres), shall not exceed ten. If alternatively the arrangement contains no guns exceeding 6 inches (152 millimetres) in calibre, the number of guns is not limited. In either case the number of anti-aircraft guns and of guns not exceeding 5 inches (127 millimetres) is not limited."

Article XII, which refers to guns on other than capital ships, reads;

"No vessel of war of any of the Contracting Powers, hereafter laid down, other than a capital ship, shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 8 inches (203 millimetres)."

Article XIV, which refers to the conversion of merchant ships into war craft in time of emergency, says that no preparations in this regard may be made in time of peace "other than the necessary stiffening of decks for the mounting of guns not exceeding 6 inches (152 millimetres) calibre."

The final reference to this subject in the Treaty is in connection with rules for replacement, which are as follows;

"In the case of France and Italy, which countries, with the limits allowed for bulge, may increase their armor protection and the calibre of the guns now carried in their existing capital ships so as not to exceed 16 inches (406 millimetres)—."

The foregoing is absolutely everything that the Treaty has to say on the subject of guns, and although quite explicit as to calibre and number of guns, there is no reference anywhere to gun elevation, which is considered strange in view of the number of experts who were engaged upon the job of drafting the so-called "5-5-3" Naval Limitation Treaty. The first article of the Treaty says, however, that:

"The Contracting Powers agree to limit their respective naval armament as provided in the present Treaty."

The larger part of the Treaty is taken up with very definite figures covering the strengths of the various Navies from the standpoint of capital ships and aircraft carriers. Nothing was done in respect to limiting the number of cruisers, although the size of cruisers was limited. Likewise nothing was done in limiting the number of submarines.

So we may conclude, basing our opinions purely upon the wording of the Treaty, that there is room for controversy. It may be said that since the subject was not touched upon, any Power has the right to go ahead within the limits of the Treaty and do anything in the way of improvement which might give an advantage over a rival. But, on the other hand, it may be argued just as strenuously that the spirit of the Treaty is the important thing rather than the concrete wording, and that the spirit of the compact is against taking advantage of a technical omission to gain an advantage. The proper way to settle the matter, at least in the view of a layman, would be an informal conference and agreement which would provide for absolute equality in every sense of the word with no special advantage to either side.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

THE ACTOR'S PRAYER

O God, here in my dressing-room, with the door shut, I am alone with Thee. I am glad I know the great spirit that stands silently by, here, as in every place where a human heart is beating.

Cannot an actor be God's man? Cannot I, whose business it is to play, be as conscientious as those in authority or peril, or solemn function?

Convention classes me and my fellows among the loose and thoughtless.

So Thou art my secret. I triumph inwardly to find Thy presence and taste the mystic joy of Thy friendship, while the world suspects not.

Thou washest my heart clean as the priest's. Thou givest me a holy ambition to do my work well, that I also may be a devout craftsman. Thou teachest me subtle ways to resist despair, to master my passions, to heal unworthy weakness; the rare medicine of Thy presence is for me, too, as well as for the cloistered monk or meditating scholar.

Teach me to be great, among the many who are content to be called great.

Reveal to me satisfaction of virtue, the inner rewards of loyalty, helpfulness, and self-control.

Let me be an unusual person because of that simplicity of heart and that lovableness of nature that I learn from Thee.

May I also touch the infinite and share the divine current that thrills all high souls. Save me from the bogs of pettiness, from egotism, self-pity, envy, and all the corrosive that mar life.

I do not serve in the temple; mine is no solemn office nor critical station, but I thank Thee that the river of God flows through the streets of the city, and that whosoever will may drink.

Make me to achieve a better success in my role before the ever-present audience of the angels than I hope to have when I play my part upon the mimic stage.

Ever, in all junctures, in hours of lightness as in stress or trial, God of my soul, help me play the man. Amen!

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

THE GERMAN LANGUAGE

The Steuben Society of America is encouraging the study of the German language in our schools. The only opposition which they will encounter will come from pinheads who are eager to advertise their patriotism. The record of the Steuben Society for American patrotism is clear and above reproach.

Furthermore, the study of the German or any other language has nothing to do with patriotism. It is a matter pertaining entirely to the development of the human mind.

The German language should be studied in childhood because it is difficult to master.

The treasures of German literature and philosophy are beyond the reach of translations. A through knowledge of this language opens wide fields of poetry and fiction and essays and drama and, above all, scientific knowledge. No matter how much you hate the former kaiser and the junkers, you are merely hurting yourself and the developing of your own mind by shutting your eyes to these achievements.

To be able to read Geethe in the original is worth all the trouble that it takes to learn German.

If you are a Methodist or a Baptist or a Congregationalist or a Holy Roller, you cannot fully grasp the history of your own church without a knowledge of Luther and his times. And that knowledge you never can fully possess unless you can read German. Even the popular hymns that you sing are more forceful in their German original.

The humor and poetry of Heine are lost in translation. You must know German to appreciate them, and when you know them your life will be so much the happier.

It is the same with the droll snappiness of Schopenhauer, the beautiful thoughts of Schiller, the humanity of Gotthold Lessing, the wisdom of Kant and Hegel and Fichte. Emmannuel Kant, whose tercentenary was recently celebrated, ranks with Aristotle and Bacon and the rest of the little handful who constitute the great test minds of all times.

It is only by knowing the German language that you can understand and enjoy to the fullest extent the achievements of those men.

It would also be a splendid thing if you could have all your children learn French and Italian and Spanish. These languages, too, offer rich fields of information and enjoyment that lose in the translation. But the fields are not as wide nor as diversified as the German one.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Avoid disappointment by refusing substitutes which do not possess its advantages.

Some Astronomical Explanations

BY GARRATT P. SERVISS

"Despite the assiduity with which I have read and studied a text-book of astronomy there are difficulties which I have been unable to overcome, and now I appeal to you. My difficulties are, to wit:

"1—Is the orbit of the earth slanted to the sun, and if it is, is the earth's axis inclined to it?

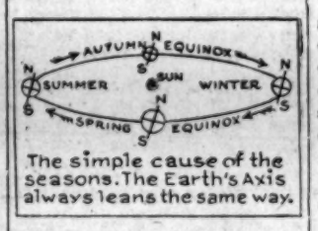
"2—If both the orbit is slanted and the axis inclined to it, is the change of seasons produced by the slant of the orbit or the inclination of the axis?

"3.—What does the book mean when it says: 'In 1862 Mars was very near to us, for it was in perihelion while the earth was in aphelion?' For, is not the sun at one focus of all the orbits, and do they not all have their perihelions and apelions in the same places?—R. V. M."

Your case enforces what I have so often said, viz, that more attention should be given to astronomy in the public schools. There seems to be nothing that people in after years so much regret as that this part of their education was overlooked, and they regret it because they find that with increasing age comes a growing desire for the widening and uplifting of the thoughts which astronomy is peculiarly suited to afford.

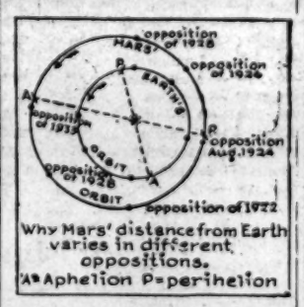
The things that you mention are fundamental to an under standing of astronomy, and I am making two little drawings which should clear away your difficulties.

First, the orbit of the earth is not "slanted to the sun." The plane of the orbit is like a perfectly flat floor, with the sun in the middle and the earth rolling around it in a slightly elliptical path. The long elliptical outine of the earth's orbit as shown in the picture, simply means that its plane is presented toward the reader at a slope in order to show more clearly the earth's position at four different and opposite points in its circuit.



The simple cause of the seasons. The Earth's Axis always leans the same way.

The important thing to notice is that the axis around which the earth rotates daily is inclined to the plane of the orbit, and also, of course, to the sun, but that it keeps the same inclination, and leans the same way no matter where it may be in the orbit. This accounts for the change of seasons, for, because the axis always leans the same way, the North Pole is inclined toward the sun in Summer and away from the sun in Winter. In Spring and Autumn, at the equinoxes, it leans neither toward nor away from the sun. All these facts the picture shows. Because of them the sun seems to rise higher in the northern sky in Summer, and to sink lower in Winter. There you have the fundamental cause of the change of seasons. This covers your first two questions.



Why Mars' distance from Earth varies in different oppositions.
A=Aphelion P=perihelion

For answer to the third, consult the picture of the orbits of Mars and the earth. It is true that the sun is in a corresponding focus of the elliptical orbit of each planet, but the orbits not only differ in eccentricity, but also in the directions in which their major axes lie. In the picture the letters A and P show, respectively, the positions of the aphelion and perhelion point of each of the two orbits. You will see by the dotted lines that they are wide apart as to direction.

Since Mars and the earth travel at different rates, they may come into line with one another, and the sun, i. e., Mars, may be in opposition at any point in the circuit. But their distance apart varies enormously, according to the place where the opposition occurs. This year the circumstances are extremely favorable, since the opposition occurs with Mars very near its perihelion, while the earth is not very far past its aphelion. A little thoughtful inspection of the picture will show you exactly why the distance between Mars and the earth is least if the opposition occurs when Mars is nearest to the sun (perihelion) and the earth is farthest from the sun (aphelion).

DRESS

Makers and purveyors of women's clothes are finding that with every season there is an ever greater demand for knowledge of colors. In other words the question of color in women's clothes has passed from a fairly simple stage when there were only three or four "new" colors a season to the present time when every season scores of "new" shades and colors are devised.

Once brown was merely "brown"— now they talk of tete de negre or nigger, of Havana or tobacco. Instead of blue they speak of "powder," or lupine, daphne, sistine, etc. Every season there are new greens. They still talk of Lanvin, reseda, and even of jade, but newer are aphrodite and tarragon and bud green.

For each mixture of color pigments there is often a whole range of colors, and milliners and dressmakers have taken advantage of the charm that lies in such shadings—shadings that suggest the effect of a sunset where a deep pink will shade off to an almost imperceptible blush, or the shading of pigment on the petals of a flower, from deep tones at the edge to the faintest shades at the center.

It is possible to buy chiffon shaded in this manner—in rose, yellows and other colors—at many of the shops, and this is used in making scarfs, many of them edged with ostrich fringe. Narrow ribbons ranging from lightest to a vivid tone of a certain color are used in trimming picturesque evening frocks. The idea is worked out interestingly in the crown of a felt hat that ranges from a vivid green at the brim to a pale yellow at the center of the crown. A distinctly faded effect is the result. In the hat of this sort shown in the sketch little ribbon pump bows trim it in front and back and on either side.

ON THE SCREEN OF FASHION

At a very smart wedding recently the maid of honor in yellow wore stockings and slippers to match and the bridesmaids in mauve wore mauve stockings and slippers—thus departing from the custom of wearing flesh-tinted stockings regardless of the color of the frock. There seems to be an increasing demand for stockings to match the frock with which they are to be worn.

A SCARF THAT IS DIFFERENT

One of the smartest of the white sport frocks shown by a smart shop has an accompanying scarf made of bright red crepe de chine, bound with two-inch white silk braid—which makes the binding an inch wide, as the braid is doubled and then stitched in place.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

BY MARY MARSHALL

WHEN YOU HAVE STRAWBERRIES

Remember that many persons find strawberries acidious unless they are home grown. Such persons usually find no difficulty attendant on eating strawberries for two or three weeks when they are raised in nearby gardens, and ripened in the sunshine.

Wash strawberries and drain them thoroughly before removing the hulls. Never put them in the refrigerator damp. If you must keep them overnight, dry them thoroughly before putting them away. Preferably, they should not be washing and hulled, but kept with their hulls and the dust on them—they keep better in that way.

If you haven't many strawberries, either because they are expensive or because you haven't ordered enough, you can serve them with other things to make them go further. They are delicious with shredded fresh pineapple. They are good with mounds of cold boiled rice, served with cream and sugar. They are also good with diced oranges.

BETTER ROADS ARE PROMISED FOR ICHOWFU

Improvement Of Highways Is Planned As Soon As Rains Let Up

(China Press Correspondence)

Ichowfu, Shantung, July 24.—For the past four years efforts have been repeatedly made towards inaugurating a good roads campaign in this section of Shantung, but the military officials have refused to lend their assistance. They say they fear the people would be unwilling to make the effort, and that they would consequently lose face.

However it may be, there is one official of a lower rank than some of our local men who has screwed his courage to the sticking point and obtained the sanction of Tsinanfu, and, as soon as the summer rains are over he plans to put the roads between Ichowfu and Hainanchen in good condition. The latter city is on the Lung-Hai railroad at a point some forty li nearer than our nearest station on the Tientsin-Pukow.

This will not only facilitate passenger travel, but mails will be routed over this new line. The same man will also repair the road between this city and Tsaochwang. Four new cars have been bought for these two lines and there is not the slightest doubt but they will have plenty of business. The one car which has been running for the past year has been very much in demand, so much so that the trip has usually been made with the car badly overloaded, with consequent frequent lay-ups for repairs.

Business is in good condition in the city and good communication with the outside world is the principal thing needed to make Ichowfu one of business centers of the province. We hear frequent whisperings of the railroad which will connect Kaomi on the Kiao-Tsi railroad with Suchowfu on the Tientsin-Pukow and which will probably pass through this city. One has only to see the almost continuous line of barrows bringing goods to this city from Yihsien to realize that the proposed road would pay from the beginning. We hope it will not be long delayed.

NEW RADIO SET FOR PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S NEW RADIO.

A new super-heterodyne set, with loop aerial and power amplifier, believed to be the very latest word in radio efficiency, has been constructed by Navy engineers in Washington as a gift to President Coolidge. It is self-contained in a mahogany tea wagon, and may be used in any room in the White House where Mr. Coolidge sees fit to have it placed. The basket weave on top of the set contains the loud speaker. No ground connection is made.

Music Skyscraper Now Planned For New York

American Society Of Composers Proposes To Erect Dollars 5,000,000 Building

New York, June 15.—The erection of a $5,000,000 memorial to American music in the form of a lofty building, with auditorium, offices, theatre, clubrooms and roof garden, somewhere in the Times Square district, was revealed yesterday as the goal of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, with headquarters at 56 West Forty-fifth Street. The plan is to have the members of that organization agree to waive payment of their annual royalties from radio, phonograph, music roll, theatre and other companies.

The royalties on members' copyrights would be applied to a special fund to erect the building. E. C. Mills, Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, explained yesterday that the society readily could apply $500,000 annually to the fund for the building.

He explained that the proposal was to make the musical skyscraper not only headquarters for the musical profession but for allied organisations. He had talked the scheme over with members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and everywhere found a sympathetic attitude toward the project.

NOT ALTRUISTIC

"If we should not be able get all the allied organisations to come in," said Mr. Mills, "we will go ahead with the undertaking just the same, and I am sure that the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers will erect the building.

"The building would be supported on an entirely economic basis. It is not a purely altruistic undertaking. The tenants would pay rents on the basis of existing rentals in the Times Square district."

Mr. Mills said that the plans for the national monument to American music would be discussed in detail at the next meeting of the Administrative Committee of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. That meeting was to have been held on the meeting last Thursday of June, but in order to bring the Victor Herbert Memorial before the committee the meeting has been postponed to early in July.

The $500,000 yearly fund which Mr. Mills explained could be set aside from the royalties of members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, would enable the organisation and its allied bodies to erect a $5,000,000 skyscraper. He suggested that the building be twenty-five or thirty stories.

No definite action has been taken on the scheme, according to Mr. Mills, who said that announcement of details at this time would be premature. He laid the plan before a group of publishers several days ago and said many of that group spoke with the highest commendation of the scheme.

INDEPENDENT OF CITY

In discussing the project Mr. Mills explained that the American Society would not feel disposed to tie itself up to an undertaking such as the city proposes in the Music and Art Centre. The reason is that the society wishes to be free from all entanglements in its efforts to make its music monument a self-supporting institution.

"There is no reason why a project of this kind is not feasible as a legitimate and profitable business proposition," said Mr. Mills. "The members will receive stock in lieu of dividends and share in the profits as stockholders. But we are working for something bigger than money. We want this great structure to rise in majestic beauty and dignity as a fitting tribute to American musicians. We want it to stand alone—something bigger, better and finer than any building of its kind is the United States and, in fact, the entire world.

"We want to make it the heart and soul of American artistic endeavor as well as the home of allied industries. Beneath its roof, we would gather such organisations as the Actors Equity Association, the Guild of Free Lance Writers, the National Advertising Association, the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, the Publishers' Protective Association, the Concert Managers' Association, Authors' League, Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association, Burlesque Club, Newspaper Club, League of American Penwomen and others.

"At present the plan has not yet received the official sanction of the American Society, but I am hopeful that it will go through. If undertaken it will be one of the greatest moves ever taken to promote the cause of music and the allied arts in the United States and prove a fitting memorial to those men who have helped to make America musical."
